directed study courses that students could select from previously (this minor was develop @20 years ago when independent study courses were used more freely; we now have a course in place that can be used to replace this list of options);
2. instead of requiring CAHS/HDFS/NTRI 3380 (department level study abroad preparation courses), H USC 3380/3383, Study Abroad Opportunities in Human Sciences (a college level study abroad preparation course or the equivalent online version) will be required;
3. providing a simplified description of the foreign language requirement (credits remain the same).

The Human Sciences core requirements and the total number of hours required for the minor (18) remain the same.

Note: Students may also earn the International Minor in Human Sciences through the Joseph S. Bruno Auburn Abroad
